

Cooperation between the Institute of Humanities and Samarkand State University

A delegation of the Institute of Humanities, represented by the Director of the Graduate School of Applied Linguistics, Translation and Interpreting A.V. Rubtsova, Associate Professor of the Graduate School of Applied Linguistics, Translation and Interpreting N.E. Anosova, and Deputy Director for International Affairs of the Institute of Humanities M.N. Zalyvsky discussed the implementation of joint network educational programs with the administration of the Samarkand State University.

The delegates also attended the international scientific conference "Resolving Complexities in English Studies: Theoretical and Pedagogical Perspectives", held on May 19-20, where they gave reports at the plenary session. The main issues discussed at the conference were related to the application and development of modern methods and approaches to the formation of the professional personality of a foreign language teacher.
